What is Foster Parenting?

Adelphoi's foster care program is a family-based resource that allows youth who have been referred by the courts to grow and develop in a family environment until they can return home or to another permanent family. Professional casework services are provided to each youth in foster care and their foster family.

There are several options available for families wanting to provide foster care:

Intensive Foster Care: Placement is provided for youth who have more intensive problems. Increased supervision and interventions for youth provided by the foster family and outside resources are utilized based upon the needs of the youth. This level of care also provides for increased visitation.

Pregnant and Parenting Care: Parenting Care is a specialized foster home program designed to assist teenage mothers and their children, as well as expectant mothers in a family setting. Parenting, education, and monitoring of parenting skills are provided.

Respite Care: Respite care is short-term placement on weekends or holidays.

Kinship Care: All kinship referrals are assessed at admissions and placed in program according to needs.

Teen Focused Care: This level of care is targeted for youth who are 13 years of age and older, have experienced significant trauma and have moderate to severe emotional and behavior challenges that may require more intensive and coordinated services. Additionally, foster parents providing this level of care are expected to participate in the CORE (Critical, On-going Resource Family Education) training. The Core Teen Curriculum provides families with information they need to develop safe relationships with the youth while focusing on how they can adapt their parenting style to support the youth's needs rather than focusing on the behaviors.

Who are our foster children?

The children in foster care are referred by county agencies when it is determined that a home environment has become unsafe for the children. There may be drug/alcohol abuse, violence, sexual/emotional abuse, or neglect. Some children enter foster care when a family member who has acted as a caregiver is no longer able to continue care.

The children in foster care attend public schools, participate in sports, activities, and attend church and family functions just like any other child. Including the foster child in all areas of family life instills a sense of belonging and normalcy.

Who are our foster/adoptive parents?

The men and women who act as foster parents are a diverse group but unified by a common goal – to provide a caring and nurturing environment for the children placed in their care. Some foster parents are married while others are single, divorced or widowed. Biological children live with some of the foster parents, while others have never had children of their own.

Benefits

Adelphoi has been placing foster kids successfully for over 45 years and providing adoption placement for 20 years. In order to attract and retain loving, stable families, Adelphoi provides a number of tangible benefits to families and the youth in their care.

Daily Reimbursement: A daily reimbursement is offered to each family who fosters a youth. The amount varies depending on the level of care that the youth requires.

Clothing Reimbursement: An initial clothing allotment is offered to families to assist with the initial clothing needs of the child.

Medical: All medical needs and services incurred by the youth are covered by health insurance.

Training: Adelphoi conducts a family preparation program, as well as ongoing trainings, including Trauma Systems Therapy for Foster Care, that provides parents with the knowledge and resources necessary to deal with children's issues.

Support: Adelphoi provides ongoing support and case management from caring Adelphoi staff, including a 24-hour on-call service. You become part of a team that is working toward the best possible outcome for your foster child.
