FirstMatch® Receives $10,000 Grant from the Bob Barker Company Foundation

Latrobe, Pennsylvania – FirstMatch, the pioneering predictive analytics tool designed to optimize the matching process between children and treatment programs, is proud to announce it has received a $10,000 grant from the Bob Barker Company Foundation. This generous support will bolster FirstMatch's mission to improve outcomes for youth in the child welfare, juvenile justice, and behavioral health systems.

The Bob Barker Foundation, known for its commitment to reducing recidivism, has chosen to invest in FirstMatch due to the tool's proven impact on reducing multiple placements, decreasing system penetration, and improving overall youth outcomes. FirstMatch was launched by Adelphoi, a leading nonprofit provider of behavioral and mental health services for at-risk youth in Pennsylvania for over five decades.

"FirstMatch is thrilled to receive this grant from the Bob Barker Foundation," said Mark Mortimer, COO of Adelphoi. "Their support will allow us to further our mission of providing data-driven solutions that ensure children are matched with the right programs the first time, thereby reducing trauma and enhancing their chances of success."

FirstMatch leverages historical data and clinical assessments to recommend personalized treatment programs for each child, significantly improving the likelihood of successful outcomes. This grant will be used to enhance the platform's capabilities and expand its reach to more organizations and jurisdictions.
