Foster Care

Adelphoi's foster care program is a family-based resource that allows youth who have been referred by the courts to grow and develop in a family environment until they can return home or to another permanent family. Professional casework services are provided to each youth in foster care and their foster family.

There are several options available for families wanting to provide foster care:

Intensive Foster Care: Placement is provided for youth who have more intensive problems. Increased supervision and interventions for youth provided by the foster family and outside resources are utilized based upon the needs of the youth. This level of care also provides for increased visitation.

Pregnant and Parenting Care: Pregnant and Parenting Care is a specialized foster home program designed to assist teenage mothers and their children, as well as expectant mothers in a family setting. Parenting, education, and monitoring of parenting skills are provided.

Respite Care: Respite Care is short-term placement on weekends or holidays.

Kinship Care: Kinship Care places children in the care of their relatives when their parents cannot provide the care they need.

Teen Focused Care: This level of care is targeted for youth who are 13 years of age and older, have experienced significant trauma and have moderate to severe emotional and behavior challenges that may require more intensive and coordinated services. Additionally, foster parents providing this level of care are expected to participate in the CORE (Critical, Ongoing Resource Family Education) training. The Core Teen Curriculum provides families with information they need to develop safe relationships with the youth while focusing on how they can adapt their parenting style to support the youth's needs rather than focusing on the behaviors.

Who are our Foster Children?

Children in foster care are placed by county agencies when their home environment becomes unsafe due to issues like substance abuse, violence, or neglect. They live normal lives, attending public schools, participating in activities, and joining in family functions, which fosters a sense of belonging and normalcy.

Who are our Foster Parents?

Foster parents are a diverse group united by a common goal: to provide a nurturing environment for the children in their care. They may be married, single, divorced, or widowed, with some having biological children and others having none.

Benefits of Being a Foster Parent
